

SHORT COURSE:

RESPONSIBLE CONDUCT OF RESEARCH

DATE: 02 - 06th AUGUST 2021

VENUE: VIRTUAL via ZOOM

COURSE OVERVIEW

This course will introduce participants to:

- Key ethical requirements and issues that arise in the design and implementation of scientific research.
- Historical developments leading to the establishment of national and international guidelines for ethical conduct in research with human subjects.
- Philosophical principles and cultural values that influence considerations of ethical conduct in research.
- Specific international and national guidelines for ethically responsible research with attention to their merits and limitations in the conduct of research.
- Ethical issues associated with assessments of risks and benefits for research participants, including vulnerable populations.

Target Audience:

Researchers, Post Graduate Students (Post Doc ,PhD, Masters), Research Staff

REGISTRATION

Apply through this link not later than 28th July 2021:

<https://forms.gle/ULWBDqr4yF58oEJQ7>

SPONSORED BY:

MULTI – MORBIDITY RESEARCH CAPACITY INITIATIVE (MURCI)
AN NIH D43 TRAINING GRANT